CONFERENCE 2009

MEIER'S

STACK &
LAMINATION
SHOW

Meier Solar Solutions stands for excellent technical know-how, and we would like to share this expertise with you!

Meier Solar Solutions is the market leader in a rapidly growing sector. Already, every third solar module produced worldwide stems from our laminators! We owe this status to our innovative technology, our customer services and our constant striving for new solutions.

To continue our success down this new path, we would like to celebrate our new look and commemorate our 10th anniversary of the company with you! We would like to invite you to a special event on 14th/15th May 2009.

We have put together a symposium of interesting seminars and academic presentations on the theme of encapsulating modules. In addition, the Stack & Lamination Show offers you a once in a lifetime opportunity to see our stack laminator STACOLAM and the flat-bed laminator ICOLAM in action with Reis Robotics. Find out about latest developments and discuss them with the scientists from leading institutes and the specialists in our own research and development department.

To kick off the event, there is a get-together on Thursday evening to give you the chance to make new contacts and chat in a relaxed atmosphere.

On Friday, the renowned astrophysicist and TV talk show personality Dr. Dirk Soltau from the Institute for Solar Physics will offer an introduction with entertaining insights into the sphere of our mother planet. A highlight you can't afford to miss!

Come along and take advantage of the opportunity to exchange your views with specialists and colleagues! We are looking forward to seeing you and hope you enjoy hearing about the latest insights and making useful contacts!

Best wishes
